

AT LAST! SPRING has finally blossomed into summer, and we are happy to be able to share our “warmest” wishes for continued success to our readers and advertising partners! Summer is a time of rest and renewal, and you will see this reflected in this color-happy issue of New York Spaces. From the brilliant bouquets and lush botanicals throughout the issue to the wildly differing palettes of the two effortlessly chic Hamptons residences, you’ll find ideas and inspiration for every type of project and design update imaginable. New York Spaces readers are the most confident consumers in the world—Samantha Gore knows this better than anyone. Peruse our pages to see the designer’s stunning take on a color-saturated Central Park North abode inspired by Yves Saint-Laurent’s Moroccan idyll.

Our advertisers reach our fearless readers in every issue, on our digital platforms, and through our weekly e-newsletter, “The Pulse.” If you haven’t done so already, check out our fresh new site and sign up for our e-newsletter at newyorkspaces.com. We deliver design straight to your inbox, replete with party pictures—like the ones from our soiree with Maya Romanoff. Have you seen their new Ebony collection? It’s right up New Yorker’s color alley. Take a look at our recent celebrations co-hosted in beautiful showrooms across the city that never sleeps. And get ready: our Top 50 designer issue and yearly celebration are just around the corner!

Warm regards,

Lisa Ben-Isvy
