MAYA ROMANOFF LAUNCHES A NEW
WALLCOVERING COLLECTION CALLED TENONA II™

A Modern Interpretation of Japanese Paper Weaving on Vinyl

Skokie, Illinois, August 24, 2026 — Maya Romanoff, the largest manufacturer of handcrafted wallcoverings in the United States, proudly introduces Tenona II™, a refined wallcovering inspired by the artistry of centuries-old Japanese paper weaving.

Reimagining the timeless appeal of grasscloth for contemporary interiors as a 20 oz. Type II Vinyl, Tenona II features a softly textured basketweave that brings warmth, depth, and quiet sophistication to any space. Its organic pattern offers the visual richness of traditional natural grasscloths while delivering a versatile, elevated surface suited for modern design applications.

Offered in 12 natural-looking colorways, Tenona II celebrates subtle variation and tonal depth. Each colorway is thoughtfully developed to evoke a sense of balance and calm, ranging from warm neutrals to richer, grounding hues. The result is a collection that feels both timeless and current—equally at home in hospitality, workplace, healthcare, and residential environments.

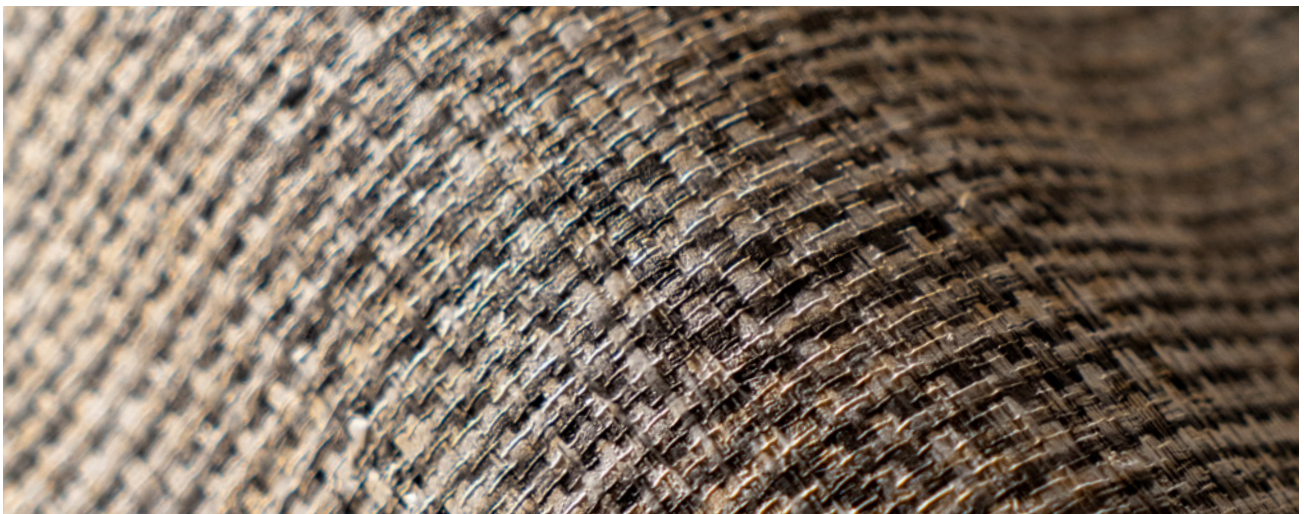

Drawing inspiration from traditional Japanese craftsmanship, Tenona II honors the beauty found in repetition, texture, and intentional design. Its woven appearance creates a tactile visual rhythm that adds dimension without overwhelming a space, allowing it to serve as both a quiet backdrop and a defining design element.

“Tenona II reflects our continued passion for translating artisanal techniques into innovative wallcoverings. There is a quiet elegance in woven materials—their imperfections, movement, and depth tell a story. With Tenona II, we wanted to capture that essence in a way that feels fresh and relevant for today’s interiors,” Joyce Romanoff, CEO, Maya Romanoff

As with every Maya Romanoff wallcovering, Tenona II embodies the brand’s commitment to craftsmanship, innovation, and material exploration. The collection transforms walls into richly layered surfaces, bringing an understated luxury that invites closer inspection.
